Transforming Procurement and Finance Onventis partners with Spendling

Germany, 2 May 2023 – Onventis, a leading-edge provider of cloud procurement solutions has joined the open partner network of Spendling, the Dutch full-service provider for the digital transformation of Source to Pay processes. The cooperation enables both partners to help mid-market organisations optimise and innovate their digital purchasing and downstream finance processes, so they can better manage risk and control their expenditures.

Many procurement and finance departments understand the benefits of having a single, unified solution to streamline all procurement and accounts payable processes, instead of taking a ‘best-of-breed’ approach. Examples are quick time-to-go-live with lean project scope, low implementation, and consulting costs, but also simplified network collaboration and intuitive user experience. The cloud-based software platform of Onventis automates all processes from Source to Pay including network collaboration with suppliers, making them easier and more efficient. An all-in-one procurement system that helps organisations to manage their business spend and achieve financial control, more efficiency, better compliance, and higher cost savings.

“Together, we are helping companies achieve success using innovative strategies and the latest technologies,” says Menno Steur, Director of Solutions at Spendliq. “By forming an alliance with Onventis, we are working to help clients drive sustainable improvements to transform the procurement organisation and processes. Our trained and certified consultants will provide end-to-end implementation services to organisations adopting the Onventis All-In-One Procurement platform, as well as professional support in terms of strategy, project and change management, and software rollout.”

“We are excited to collaborate and share knowledge with Onventis to help clients unlock hidden value in their Source to Pay-processes,” says Steur. “A key pillar in Spendliq's full-service concept is to offer independent advice to organisations on the deployment of the best technology for the digital transformation of Source to Pay. In projects where we optimise these processes with clients, the Onventis technology is a valuable addition to our process improvement. This fits in with our strategy to structurally collaborate with technology partners for the successful digital transformation of Procurement and Finance.”

“We are proud to team up with Spendliq as our first implementation partner in the Benelux region. With extensive knowledge and expertise across the Source to Pay lifecycle and a successful track record, Spendliq is a trusted partner for the digital transformation of purchasing and finance processes,” says Jerker Vulperhorst, Managing Director at Onventis Benelux. “For them to gain knowledge of the Onventis solutions as a mid-market Source to Pay suite is further recognition of our successful strategy and our approach to be the leading Source to Pay platform for the mid-market in the Benelux.”
